

It is a very great world which we live in that is worth learning about. That is why the work this week is all about worms. You may think worms are the worst mini beast but they are very worthwhile. Have you ever heard that a worm eats soil? It is worth having them in the earth because they earn their place when they work hard to eat up the rotting parts of the soil to make it better to grow plants in. For your homework this week you need to learn how to spell words that have this sound in. How many can you find?
