everi year, on the day before diwali, the King would buy the Qeen an expensive present. one year he had given her an elephant to ryde arownd the palace gardens Another year he had given her a sari covered in jewels And this year the King s present to the Qeen was no less grand: a butiful necklace made of pearls.

'I can't wate to show it off to everyone!' said the Queen, as she took her husband s present without a word of thanks, for - in truth - she was rather rude and ungrateful
