

What is James thinking and feeling at this point in the story?

